

Therapy Blueprint

A therapy blueprint is a space for you to reflect on how your difficulties developed, what kept them going, and what you learned during therapy. It can help you to plan how you are going to maintain the gains that you have made, review what warning signs you might need to remain aware of, and remember what you might find helpful should it feel like your difficulties are ever beginning to return.

The problems

What problem(s) brought you to treatment?

How did they develop?

What kept them going?

Why did the problems not get better on their own?

Consider: avoidance, safety-seeking behaviours, unhelpful beliefs.

Knowledge and skills

How has therapy helped you to deal with your problem(s)? What have you learned that has been helpful?

What strategies or techniques did you learn? (e.g. challenging my thinking, facing my fears, testing my beliefs)

Describe any behavioural experiments that you conducted: What beliefs did you test? What did you discover?

Therapy Blueprint

How I think differently now

Consider some typical situations which used to trigger strong feelings. Compare your thinking patterns before therapy and now: How did you interpret these situations then? What do these events mean to you now?

How I thought then

Before therapy, what kind of thoughts did you have in response to situations like this?

How far I have come & my goals for the future

What have you achieved so far?

How are you going to build on your achievements?

Setbacks and obstacles

What could cause a setback and how would you deal with it?

What obstacles do you anticipate might be challenging?

What would you do if your difficulties came back in a way that meant you were struggling?

Message to my future self

If you could send a message to your future self (something you would not want to forget) what would it be?
